Normandy Insurance Company Expands Coverage of Workers' Compensation to Missouri

Deerfield Beach, FL (July 2, 2019) – Florida-based workers' compensation carrier Normandy Insurance Company is now offering workers' compensation insurance to small, mid-size, and large businesses in Missouri. Normandy's methodical growth strategy has played out recently, adding six states to the company's portfolio since the beginning of the year. Normandy now offers workers' compensation insurance in Florida, Georgia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, North Carolina, and Missouri.

"Missouri marks our entry into the Midwest and we couldn't be more excited! We believe excellent customer service has been the key to our success in other states and will continue to attract the best professionals in the industry in Missouri," says Normandy's Senior Vice President & Chief Underwriting Officer Jayson Buechler. "We remain focused on workers' compensation, building a reputation for safety programs that are intensive and company-specific, and, when an accident does occur, all of our claims are handled in-house, which is an added benefit to our clients."

In 2017, Normandy Insurance Company was assigned a Demotech Financial Stability Rating® of A (Exceptional) in recognition of the company's strategic growth and solid business operations. With talented staff and a strong financial footing—Normandy has underwritten to a profit for many years—the company is well-positioned to provide innovative and cost-effective workers' compensation coverage in multiple states. As such, the company anticipates continued expansion into more states soon.
